

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

A clock distribution system including a first and second phase detector. The first phase detector outputs a phase lead of an output clock signal. The second phase detector outputs a phase lag of a returned clock signal. Circuitry is included that propagates the output clock signal onto a transmission line based on the average the output of the first phase detector and the second phase detector.